Moriah (Hebrew: מֹרְיָא, Modern: Moriyya, Tiberian: Mā'riyyā, "ordained/considered by the LORD", Arabic: مَرْوَاه, translit. Marwah) is the name given to a mountainous region by the Book of Genesis, in which context it is the location of the sacrifice of Isaac. The Vulgate renders the location specified by God for the sacrifice as terram Visionis, traditionally rendered ...
