Measuring Performance and Benchmarking Project Management

Energy expenditures average more than $2 per square foot,<sup>1</sup> making energy a cost worth managing. Benchmarking, especially when accompanied by rating and disclosure, provides energy performance information that can motivate building owners to invest in efficient upgrades through increased awareness of energy performance.

Benchmarking Industrial Energy Performance explains and visualizes energy benchmarking and how to benchmark plant performance with ENERGY STAR Energy Performance Indicators (EPIs). It depicts how EPIs are created and the value a company receives when comparing the energy performance of its plants to plants in its industry with similar characteristics.

New Jersey's Clean Energy Program, administered by the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities, supports building owners and facility managers in their pursuit of energy efficiency and sustainability. This benchmarking assessment is designed to help you: Understand how energy is consumed and cost trends at each building.
